- * Students who have taken research method courses in Social Science or related disciplines and the grade achieved must be B or above may apply for course exemption from the Division Head. Exemption is given only after careful consideration. Supporting materials need to be provided by the student.
-  Students enrolled in this course must meet the criterion of scoring an average GPA of 3.3 or above for each of the two required courses for the first semester. This course is only available in the second semester.
-  Pre-requisite: COMM5612

2. Specialized Streams

Students can declare a specialization by completing any three courses within the streams below. Students can also choose not to specialize.

Stream in “Global Media”: Upon completion of the stream, students have become specialized in knowledge and skills related to analyzing global media systems and industries, ICTs, and managing global media content. Students who have taken any three courses from COMM5510, COMM5612, COMM5631, COMM5632, COMM5690, COMM5723, COMM5725, COMM5960 or COMM6612 can be specialized in this stream.

Stream in “Social Change and Advocacy”: Upon completion of the stream, students have become specialized in understanding and analyzing the mechanisms of social change and advocacy by focusing on the intersections between society, culture, communication, and politics within the China context as well as on a global scale. They will have studied current cultural, social, and political topics related to globalization and social change, mechanisms of marginalization, and issues pertaining to the human rights discourse. Students are able to reflect critically on ways of engaging in social change and on the role of new information and communication technology (e.g. social media) in social change. Students who have taken any three courses from COMM5725, COMM5735, COMM5775, COMM5960, or COMM6210 can be specialized in this stream.

3. Remarks

With the approval of the Division Head, in lieu of the courses on the elective course list, students can take other courses within and/or outside the Division of Communication.
